To whom it may concern

The Consortium for Global Talent is a joint initiative of 18 of the largest Danish and international companies working to improve the overall conditions for foreign skilled professionals in Denmark.

An essential precondition for being able to attract foreigners and their families is that sufficient international school places exist and that the quality of the tuition is high.

It is therefore with pleasure the Consortium for Global Talent welcomes the opening of Aarhus Academy for Global Education, which provides the surrounding companies with world class education all the way from kindergarten and primary school to middle school.

The Consortium is convinced that the new school will offer the foreign employees and their families an outstanding opportunity for obtaining an international education and thereby become an important reason for foreigners to choose Aarhus as their new home for a longer or shorter period of their working life.
